Civic message of communication

There was standing room only at St Mildred's Church for Tenterden's civic service on Sunday.

It had the theme of communication and members of the congregation were handed a postcard of the town hall on which to write a message to send to a relative, friend or neighbour, reminding them of the value of traditional forms of communication.

The service was led by Canon Lindsay Hammond.

Ashford and Tenterden MP Damian Green said: "The service was extremely well done and the church was packed out. There were some very good readings on the theme of communication."

Michael Bax, a deputy lieutenant of Kent, was also at the service with visiting mayors from Ashford, New Romney, Rye, Folkestone and Sandwich.

Mayor of Tenterden Cllr Justin Nelson said: "The service went extremely well and Lindsay did a brilliant job."
